"We come here every year," Metairie resident Buddy Ryals said Wednesday outside city hall during Diamondhead's 10th annual Blessing event. "We came down for the very first Cruisin' the Coast in 1996. We love it."

The sky's the limit

“Nobody ever told me I couldn’t be a one-armed piano player,” — Pat Murphy.

By Cassandra Favre
Staff Writer

For many than half a century, Bay St. Louis native Pat Murphy has rocked stages in Hancock County and beyond with the musical stylings of The Pat Murphy Band.

“I’ve played music for over 50 years pretty steadily, always had a pretty decent band and was known for having that,” Murphy said. “When it gets into the friends and accepting and people accepting and that kind of thing, I always say that ‘nobody ever told me I couldn’t be a one-armed player.’ Which was true. Nobody ever said anything and they just always liked the music and I was part of it.”

Murphy is a polio survivor, and despite the still lingering effects, said he has lived a full life and continues to educate people about the disease.

The ‘Polio Center’

Murphy was born in 1949 in Bay St. Louis. He spent the early part of his youth living in his grandparents’ apartments, formerly the Klock Hotel, on the corner of Ballentine and Beach Boulevard. Later, his father built their family home on Felicity Street.

In 1952, when Murphy was about two-and-a-half to three years old, he was diagnosed with polio.

He was brought to Charity Hospital in New Orleans, which was known at that time as the “polio center,” Murphy said, because of the large number of polio cases.

“I often think of my mom and dad and grandparents and the anguish that they must have felt to have the first child, the only grandchild, taken away from them and put into a hospital in New Orleans,” Murphy said.

At the time, his parents didn’t have a vehicle, so they relied on people they knew with vehicles to take them to New Orleans to visit their son. His father often traveled to New Orleans on business and would bring his wife, as well.

“I don’t really have a lot of memories of when I was in the hospital,” he said. “I do vaguely remember other kids being there. I remember pretty vividly what they used to call the iron lungs, which was like a breathing machine. It looked like a railroad locomotive or something. The child’s head would be sticking out.”

Murphy said he was in the polio center for about six months.

“When I came out of it, I came home,” he said. “The only thing that really was affected was my left arm, or so we thought.”

Murphy said his grandparents and parents were well-known throughout the community and he said he became a “poster child” of sorts for mothers marches and March of Dimes events.

‘The Sky’s the Limit’

“Very typically, most polio survivors, when they talk about their childhood, they were basically raised actually two ways: They were either sheltered completely, which I was not, or they were raised to believe that the sky was the limit and they could do anything that they set their mind to do. Being handicapped was not a situation that I was in, even though I was, to an extent. I wasn’t raised like that.”

He said his parents always told him he could do anything he set his mind to.

“And if you can’t do it, you’ll just understand that you won’t,” he said. “And that’s very true.”

His parents also encouraged him to play sports such as baseball, football, basketball, and to join the Boy Scouts.

A Passion is Born

When he was in the sixth grade, Murphy’s uncle presented him with a musical opportunity that would set him on his life’s course.

“He said, ‘would you like to play in the school band?’” Murphy said. “And I said, ‘yeah sure, I really would.’ He said, ‘if you want to, I will buy you the instrument, but it better not end up in the closet.’ And school band was my path to my musical career.”

His uncle brought a trumpet. Throughout his high school band years, he also played a baritone and valve trombone.

“With my friends and family, my handicap was just never an issue,” he said.

Also during high school, Murphy said, one of his friends got a set of drums; one got a bass guitar; and another friend got an electric guitar.

“They started a band, and boy, I wanted in on that so bad,” Murphy said. “I had already had people showing me rock and roll things on the piano. My sisters always had a piano, both of them could play. I had been practicing so it wasn’t too long before I talked my way into the band and never looked back.”

After high school, Murphy took his music on the road, traveling all over the south for about three years.

When he was about 24, he met his future wife, Candy, on a band gig.

“We fell in love,” Murphy said. “We got married about two years later and never really looked back.”

He also included Candy in his band.

“She didn’t know how to play, but I bought her a Fender bass for Christmas one year and I taught her,” he said. “Six months later she was playing bass in the band and then she went on to sing and all that too.”

The pair have a daughter and Murphy said he lived a “normal family life.”

‘Post-Polio Syndrome’

“I call polio the disease the keeps on giving,” Murphy said. “It’s very, very rare that you talk to someone that’s going to be truthful that had polio in early life that they’re not having some kind of post-polio problems. It can be muscle weakness, can be trouble breathing, it can be a lot of different things, but it’s all related to polio.”

Murphy said the best way he can describe polio is that the disease attacks the motor neurons in the spine and brain stem.

“And if God gives you 100 million motor neurons at birth, which it’s some incredible figure, polio, when it attacks, can kill as many as three-quarters of those motor neurons. It’s anywhere from half to two-thirds. It can be even more than that and it can end up killing you.”

Murphy said a human being needs those motor neurons in order for muscles and other things to run on.

“Well, all of a sudden you got two-thirds or three-quarters of them are not there,” he said. “So you have this bank of 25 to 30 percent of what you need and to go through life and do what most normal human beings do.”

Murphy said that most polio survivors are raised to believe that they can do anything they want.

“Which for me included hiking, swimming, working jobs,” he said. “When I was 21 years old, I had a job cutting line for a survey crew. But, the whole time that I was doing that, I was doing that using the energy of 100 million motor neurons, but I only had three quarters or 25 percent of those. So, the whole time I’m doing that, I’m burning up motor neurons.”

He was about 40 years old when he started hearing the term, “post-polio syndrome.” He was about 45 when started noticing minor problems with raising his arm over his head or holding his arm up for an extended period of time and he found himself getting tired easier.

In 1998, he said, he was noticing it enough that he started seeing seeking out physicians.

“There was not a lot of knowledge about it (post-polio syndrome),” he said. “Even today, there’s not a lot, but there’s a lot more than there used to be.”

That same year, he traveled to the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Polio Institute in Warm Springs, Georgia.

“At that time, the doctor that was over that institute was the world’s foremost authority on post-polio,” he said. “They did some preliminary testing and different things to establish a baseline with me. Then I came home and just kept living life. All I did at that point was started learning to take it a little easier. But I was still loading equipment, playing music, and staying out ‘til four o’clock in the morning.”

However, prior to 2005, he said, his symptoms really started to bother him.

“I got to the point where if I sat down on a sofa, I couldn’t stand up, my legs were that weak,” Murphy said. “I’d end up having to have somebody pull me up and help me up. I still had some strength, but I just didn’t have enough to do that.”

Also, after Hurricane Katrina in 2005, the Murphys lived in the upstairs portion of their home, and he had to travel up the stairs about 10 to 12 times a day.

“It would just wear me out,” he said.

Around 2007, he went to the National Rehabilitation Hospital in Washington D.C., where he underwent more tests and doctors established a further baseline.

“At that point, I started just trying to learn everything I could to try to help myself and to try and not hurt myself anymore than I had,” Murphy said. “Even the average physical therapist, if they don’t have any experience with post-polio, they think weak muscles, you have to exercise and strengthen them up. And there’s a difference. There’s a fine, fine line between exercise and maintaining what you got or strenuous exercise and hurting yourself further.”

By about 2012, Murphy said, he was steadily losing strength.

Through her research, his daughter found a doctor in Birmingham, Alabama, who used to run a post-polio clinic. After he closed the clinic, he went into pain management.

“We went to him for probably five years,” he said. “His physical therapist, her father had been a polio survivor. She’s the one who really hipped me to what to do and what not to do and what I was going to need in the years to come.”

A ‘Godsend’

Despite not traveling to Birmingham anymore, Murphy said, he keeps in touch with Amy, his physical therapist.

She advised and helped Murphy obtain his power chair, which helps preserve his strength. She also provided advice on how to build their new home, which was designed by Bay St. Louis architect Michael Reeves. “This house has been a Godsend,” he said. “Everything in it is accessible. I can load the chair in the van under the carport without getting wet. There’s no place I can go in this house that I can’t go in the wheelchair and get in and out of.”

Murphy said that some of his recent concerns are stumbling or falling when he’s not in the chair.

“If I go from point A to point B and I’m not in the chair, I try to train myself that I’m going to use a cane,” he said. “Which I do, 95 percent of the time. But, I’m staying in the chair more and more because I can get up and down and can do this and that.”

Murphy said he concentrates on being a positive person.

“You can be happy just as easily as you can be sad,” he said. “I have always been willing to talk about polio and the average person knows nothing about polio. All they know is that it was a childhood disease from back in the early part of the 20th century. As far as they know, it’s been eradicated and gone, they don’t have to worry about it.”

Murphy is also a member of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club.

“Rotary International has all but eradicated polio in the world,” he said. “There’s only one or two areas in third world countries where polio even exists. But, it all hinges on the vaccine and children being vaccinated. And guess what, now they’ve had a couple of cases in New York City. And you know why? Because people aren’t vaccinating their kids.”

Murphy said he is a “staunch” believer in the vaccine.

“It (polio) did not exist in the United States until now people are not getting their kids vaccinated, and all of a sudden, here it comes. Believe me, you could not curse your child worse than giving them polio.”

However, Murphy said, he doesn’t look at himself as cursed.

“My situation, there was nothing that could be done about it at the time, now there is something that can be done about,” he said.

The first polio vaccine became available in the United States in 1955, about three years after Murphy’s polio diagnosis.

“But I went and got the vaccine,” he said. “I took it with everybody else.”

Murphy said throughout his life and musical career, he was “completely accepted.”

“I’ve led a blessed life, there’s no doubt, because I could have ended up in an iron lung machine or neck to floor braces,” he said.

BLESSING OF THE CLASSICS

The city of Diamondhead last week hosted the 10th annual Blessing of the Classics to kick off Hancock County’s participation in the 6th annual Cruisin’ the Coast. “This is a wonderful event,” Father Paddy Mockler — pastor for Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church -- said Wednesday at the Blessing site. “I missed the first (Blessing), but I’ve been here for all the rest.” Mockler blessed classic cars and their owners as they drove through the site. Each participating car owner received a Blessing of the Classics commemorative certificate. Cruisers were invited to the staging area at Diamondhead City Hall, where Monster Crawfish performed from 1-4 p.m.; and the Beau King Band performed from 4-7 p.m. The 26th annual Cruisin’ the Coast set a new record last week, hosting a historic 9,618 registered classic cars. Since the original blessing’s organizers -- Hank Holcomb, Wayne Cooper and the late Mark Duffy -- started the event in 2013, it has grown exponentially. It has become a family tradition not only for Diamondhead residents, who have “tailgate” parties out on their lawns as the classic cars roll by, but also for the Cruisers themselves, who return year after year.

‘Wave of Light’

I’ve been following a certain British YouTuber named Eva for years now.

She began her channel with fashion and beauty content and then it branched out into lovely travel videos filled with beautiful spots I can only dream about visiting.

Needless to say, she is one of my favorites and I enjoy her content and personality.

Naturally, when she announced that she and her husband were expecting a baby girl, I was over the moon excited for them.

Tragically, mere days before her due date, a heart-beat was not detected. Her baby was stillborn. She announced it on her Instagram account and my heart broke for the little family.

It’s been almost six months and this brave girl has been sharing her grief. One, as a way to help her through the process, and two, as a way to reach others experiencing the same loss.

She was still reeling from the unexpected loss of her mother a couple of years prior, when she became pregnant.

This month, she is also spreading awareness for Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month and Oct. 15, which is Pregnancy and Infant Loss Remembrance Day.

This isn’t the first time I’ve mentioned this important type of awareness.

I’m the proud aunt of Evan and Gracie, both born prematurely and passed away in 2012 and 2013, respectively.

According to october15th.com, in 1988, President Ronald Reagan declared October as National Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month.

“When a child loses his parent, they are called an orphan. When a spouse loses his or her partner, they are called a widow or widower. When parents lose their child, there isn’t a word to describe them. This month recognizes the loss so many parents experience across the United States and around the world. It is also meant to inform and provide resources for parents who have lost children due to miscarriage, ectopic pregnancy, molar pregnancy, stillbirths, birth defects, SIDS, and other causes,” — President Ronald Reagan.

On Oct. 15, people are invited to light a candle for an hour beginning at 7 p.m. in all time zones for a continuous “Wave of Light,” all over the world.

I don’t always remember to light a candle in my niece and nephew’s memory, but they are always

Hancock History Sarah Bernhardt

The little fishing village of Bay St. Louis in 1881 had the pleasure of entertaining, arguably the most famous world celebrity actress, Sarah Bernhardt. Her arrival at the train depot was not to perform in an Opera House, but the consequence of a broken train wheel which caused a layover of several hours. Her presence in town caused such a commotion that the mayor was summoned to cobble together a welcoming delegation and organize a grand luncheon at the nearby Crescent Hotel.

Sarah Bernhardt was a legend in her own time and her story is worth telling to appreciate the excitement of that historic day in the Bay. Sarah Bernhardt (1844-1923) was a French stage actress that starred in all of the most popular French plays of that period. She was an international star that performed all over the world. During her lifetime she made nine tours in the United States. These performances were spoken only in French, but the American audiences in New York City were willing to pay $40 a ticket just to see her act. On one tour she gave 157 performances in 51 cities.

Part of the attraction of “Divine Sarah,” as she was known by her fans, was her unconventional behavior both on and off the stage. Her career began after a classical education in acting in Paris. She had a hot temper and lost her first job at the “Theatra-Francais” because she slapped the senior actress who had just been rude to her younger sister. It did not take long before Sarah determined that one could make an enormous amount of money going on tour to a world of communities that were starved for entertainment. After one such American tour, Sarah brought home to Paris $194,000 in gold coins. Sarah formed her own company and would commission a dedicated train to take her troupe, stage props and costumes from city to city.

Her acting was remarkable because of her grace, beauty, and charisma that gave her a commanding stage presence. An expressive actress

Conservation Corner National Fire Prevention Month/Week

October is National Fire Prevention Month with National Fire Prevention Week being observed October 9-15, 2022. This year’s theme “Fire Won’t Wait. Plan Your Escape™” works to educate everyone about the simple but important actions they can take to keep themselves, and those around them, safe from home fires.

Today’s homes burn faster than ever. From the time the smoke alarm sounds, you may have as little as 2 minutes or less to escape a home fire. During a fire, early warning from smoke detectors and advance planning helps your ability to escape the burning home.

This yearly observance was established to remember the Great Chicago Fire, which occurred in 1871. It killed more than 250 people, left 100,000 homeless, destroyed more than 17,400 structures, and burned more than 2,000 acres. The fire began on October 8, but continued into and did most of its damage on October 9, 1871.

While the Great Chicago Fire was the best-known blaze to erupt during this fiery 2-day period, it wasn’t the largest. That distinction goes to the Peshtigo Fire, the most destructive forest fire in American history. The fire, which also occurred on October 9, 1871, roared through Northeast Wisconsin, burning down 16 towns, killing 1,152 people, and scorching 1.2 million acres before it was done.

The Peshtigo Fire began when several railroad workers clearing land for much needed tracks unintentionally started a brush fire. Soon the fast moving flames were raging across the land. It was the small town of Peshtigo, Wisconsin that suffered the worst damage. Within an hour, the entire town had been destroyed.

People start most wildfires, but some are attributed to lightning from electrical storms. These fires can spread quickly, igniting brush, trees, and even homes. We need to be especially careful when using campfires or bonfires.

Without proper precautions, campfires are potentially dangerous. You need to know how to properly build one, how to keep it going, and how to properly extinguish it. Most of these fires burn out of control in one of two basic ways: on the ground or in the trees. Dead leaves or pine needles on the ground may ignite from direct contact or airborne embers or sparks may ignite overhanging branches.

No fire should be lit near trees, tents, or other fire hazards. Never leave a fire unattended. You should always have sand and/or water on hand to smother the fire if it does get out of control. Water is more efficient and effective in extinguishing a fire. The water should be poured until all hissing noises stop. Then you need to stir the ashes with a stick to make sure the water has penetrated all layers.

If water is unavailable, sand may be used to smother the fire. Once the fire has been covered thoroughly with sand, you will then need to stir the ashes with a stick to make sure it has been fully extinguished.

ever present in my mind.

I’m always wondering what their individual personalities would have been like or even what they would have looked like.

Thanks to the numerous scientific and medical breakthroughs we have now, I have an extremely precious eight-year-old nephew.

He is also good at convincing me to download the same games he plays on his mom’s phone.

This past weekend, he messaged me through the game and we got to play together. Through my blurry tears and foggy glasses, I managed to successfully play numerous games with him this weekend.

I don’t know why, but I just melt into a puddle when I see a text pop up from him. It’s just so darn cute that we can message each other and talk about things that he finds interesting. I love it.

Eva from YouTube is trying to learn how to live again. She had everything prepared for her little girl’s arrival and was imagining strolling her down the streets of London and beyond.

I think it shows incredible strength to share her rawest moments of grief with strangers around the world. Her followers grieve with her and I’m sure there is another grieving mother and father out there somewhat comforted to know that they are not alone.

Some people don’t share their stories of loss, which is their prerogative. What goes on in someone’s womb is no one’s business but theirs. Although, nowadays, many people think it’s theirs too. And they are wrong and should stay out of other people’s wombs.

The Star Legacy Foundation’s October campaign is #neverbest-till, a movement that “seeks to break the silence surrounding still-birth and other pregnancy/infant losses by not only educating the public about ways to support bereaved families but also empowering expectant mothers to have a health pregnancy.”

Some of the statistics the Star Legacy’s website shares are: One in four women will lose a baby during pregnancy, delivery, or infancy; one in 160 pregnancies will end in stillbirth.

So, if you think about it this Oct. 15, light a candle for one hour at 7 p.m. so we can all be part of “Wave the Light” and remember all the little angels like my dear Evan and Gracie and Eva’s little Olive.

If you know someone who has experienced stillbirth or other pregnancy/infant losses, the website www.starlegacyfoundation.org has some great resources and also what we can say to those who are grieving their children. Even though we may think we know the best words of comfort, we often miss the mark and end up causing more harm than good, even if it does come from a place of caring.

“The saddest day has gleams of light, the darkest wave hath bright foam beneath it. There twinkles o’er the cloudiest night, some solitary star to cheer it.” — Sarah Winnemucca acting relied on lavish decors, exotic costumes, and pantomimic gestures. Her notorious reputation of having many lovers and an illegitimate son, Maurice, only added to the magic enchantment exhibited by her many fans.

So, it was no surprise that day in Bay St. Louis that when Sarah came to town that Mayor Toulme summoned his wife and the staff of his Crescent Hotel to prepare a grand lunch for Ms. Bernhardt and the rest of the passengers on that train. One of the hastily recruited waitresses was the wife of U.S. Congressman E. J. Bowers who was terrified by the temperamental invectives (cursing) of some of these guests. The loudest and most angry of these passengers was none other than Sarah Bernhardt. Among other comments,

Sarah complained bitterly that her schedule was shattered by “an inconsiderate piece of metal (the broken train engine wheel).” Unfortunately, for Sarah and her cast, all the local citizens in the room spoke fluent French and were horrified and insulted by this bad European behavior. It is presumed that once it was discovered that everyone shared a common language, the French diners apologized and all was forgiven. But not forgotten. On Halloween, at the Cedar Rest Cemetery Tour, put on by the Hancock County Historical Society, the ghost of the daughter of Mrs. Bowers appears from time to time to recount this French tale of misbehavior.

In conclusion, the words of Mark Twain are worth telling: There are five kinds of actresses: bad actresses, fair actresses, good actresses, great actresses, and then there is Sarah Bernhardt.

LOUIS EDGARD MADERE III

Eddie passed away unexpectedly due to respiratory failure and lung disease while at his friend's home in Slidell, Louisiana.

Eddie was born in New Orleans, Louisiana at Southern Baptist Hospital. He attended schools in New Orleans, New York and Vermont, finishing his schooling at the New Orleans Center for Creative Arts (NOC-CA). Much of his education was what he liked to call “The School of Hard Knocks”. He loved art and combined his love and vision into his construction business “The Finish Man”. He enjoyed restoring old wood, especially red pine and cedar, turning these pieces into beautiful restorations of old flooring, old cedar furniture, jewelry boxes and other small items.

He traveled across the country, living in New Orleans, Louisiana, Key West, Florida, Upstate New York and Southern Vermont. Even with all of his travels he loved his hometown of New Orleans, he knew the best local places to eat, where to listen to music and how to enjoy the city life.

Eddie was polite, friendly and kind with a classic New Orleans accent. Always the perfect gentleman with his slow greeting of “Hi darling, how are you doing today”. He loved to talk and tell a story to anybody that was ready to listen. He would freely share his adventures and experiences, both the good and the bad, and could have a written a bestseller. He knew the struggles of no money and food scarcity and with this experience he worked every day to help other people. If you needed help, he would do whatever he could to lift you up, whether it was a job, something to eat, drink, cash, shoes, shirt or a cigarette, he would give you the last that he had.

He is predeceased in death by his father Louis “Lee” E. Madere Jr. of New Orleans, Louisiana, his mother Eugenia “Jeannie” L. Gieger of Waveland, Mississippi, his aunt Connie Beth Bermond of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi and his niece Heather J. Crane of Atlanta, Georgia. He is survived by his daughter, Victoria Anne Bleecker of Portland, Oregon, his uncle Rene R. Bermond III and wife Debbie Bermond of Perkinston, Mississippi, his aunt Margaret Madere Gonzalez, of Metairie, Louisiana, his sisters Margaret “Susan” S. Becker and her husband Douglas K. Becker of Montpelier, Vermont, Tiffany “Tiff” N. Crane, of Dushore, Pennsylvania, Margaret “Maggie” E. Madere and her husband Ashley D. Nichols of Harrison, New Jersey, and Katherine “Casey” C. Madere and her partner Justin T. Wirman of Fredericksburg, Virginia. Along with his nieces and nephews, Tedesa Gomez, Ravyn Crane, Tory Lamb, Christopher Becker, Andrew Becker and Joshua Henri Madere, and many other cousins and extended family members.

Special thanks to the many friends and family that supported and cared for Eddie during his life. Lois P. Brown and Stephanie Brown for giving Eddie love and support during the many years they were together, Randy Jordan and his wife Karen for their support and love during this difficult time, Terri Moran for supporting Eddie during hurricanes and in preparing for his remembrance gathering, Delta Moran-Colley and Fran Shubert Negrotto for their support and help along the way. Great thanks to Michael and Ellen Cochran for being Eddie's close friends for so many years.

Of note, Eddie died outside on a hot, rainy afternoon, particular thanks goes to the St. Tammany Parish EMS Team and the St. Tammany Fire Department in the hard work they do in providing emergency care. And, to the St. Tammany Parish Coroner's Office for providing support and kindness to Eddie's family after his death. Eddie will be greatly missed by many people.

If you want to make a donation that would reflect Eddie's wishes, these are a couple suggestions,

<https://www.kingsley-house.org/>

The Kingsley House, Empowering Children, Family and Community in New Orleans

<https://justbasicsvt.org/by-laws/>

The Montpelier Food Pantry, Providing Food Security for Community Members

Per Eddie's wishes, he was cremated, and no funeral or burial services are being held. His remains will be placed at The Gardens of Memory Memorial Park, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. There will be a remembrance gathering to celebrate Eddie's life. He would want for his friends and family to gather to have a drink, something good to eat and to tell a story about him. All of his family and friends are invited to attend on Saturday October 22, 2022 from 12 noon-4pm at Bayou Phillips Community Center, 9155 Harbor Drive, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520

Hancock jail escapee apprehended

ECHO STAFF

A woman who escaped from the Hancock County Adult Detention Center last week has been recaptured.

“Escapee Kasie Mitchell has been apprehended with the assistance of the Lawrence, Walthall and Pike County Sheriffs’ Offices,” Hancock Sheriff Ricky Adam said in a press release Tuesday evening. “While this was an unfortunate incident, I am pleased that our staff, working with our law enforcement partners throughout the state, was able to safely apprehend Mitchell so that she can be returned to Hancock County to answer her new felony charge of Escape.”

In addition, Mitchell's boyfriend, Sawyer Reid, was arrested as an accomplice for aiding in her getaway, Adam said.

“In short,” Adam said, “anyone and everyone who aids a fugitive from justice will face a criminal charge themselves.”

Mitchell, 27, of Ty-lertown, Mississippi was being held at the Hancock County Adult Detention Center on a hold from the Slidell Police Department stemming from a larceny charge in their jurisdiction.

She apparently scaled a barbed-wire topped fence while in the jail's exercise yard, and was picked up by someone in a vehicle.

Anyone with more information in the case is asked to call the sheriff's office at 228-466-6900.

Update: Arrest made in hit-and-run fatality at Lakeshore

ECHO STAFF

Hancock County sheriff's deputies on Wednesday arrested a man for the hit-and-run fatality of a bicyclist at Lakeshore earlier in the day.

Christopher Todd Peterson, 35, of Perkinston, was charged with leaving the scene of an accident resulting in personal injury or death. Randall Laws, 51, was declared dead at the scene.

The Bayside Fire Department responded to the scene Wednesday morning.

• ELDEN “DEE” JOHN THOMAS

MR. ELDEN “DEE”
JOHN THOMAS
AUGUST 28, 1927 ~
OCTOBER 5, 2022

Elden “Dee” John Thomas, 95, of Waveland, MS, passed away Wednesday, October 5, 2022 in Houston, Texas. Dee had many interests such as dancing, big band music, old movies, fishing, crabbing, and visiting the casinos. However, he wasn’t one to merely pursue his own interests; he also gave back to his community in large ways. Upon completing 3 1/2 years of High School, Elden J. Thomas graduated High School a half year early and was conscripted to serve in the US Army during WWII. His service contract terms read: “Enlistment For The Duration Of The War Or Other Emergency, Plus Six Months, Subject To The Discretion Of The President Or Otherwise According To Law”. Elden J. Thomas served duty in the Pacific Theatre and on the mainland of Japan during the American occupation after the Japanese Surrender on 02 September 1945. He received the World War II Victory Medal and Army of Occupation Medal. Elden J. Thomas received an Honorable Discharge on 06 February 1947. He entered the private sector and worked in various capacities including ownership of the Port St Bar in New Orleans. He was a Life Member of the Bourgeois-Stiefel-Ray American Legion Post 77 Waveland, MS, where he held numerous positions including Post Commander, Vice Commander and Executive Committee-man from 1987 until his death. Bingo/Legion Contributions: Mr. Elden “Dee” Thomas has a long history of service with the Waveland American Legion. He began ‘working’ bingo in the mid 90’s in the concession stand at the pre-Katrina Post. He worked there for a number of years before moving over to take over as the bingo cashier. He was punctual, honest, and a friend to everyone. He knew just about every bingo player by name. As his eyesight began to fail, he could tell who was coming in the doors to the main hall, simply by the way they walked. He also knew all of them as: ‘big bingo tippers’, ‘maybe a dollar tipper’ or ‘nothing out of that one tipper’. Much to the supervisor’s angst, he would frequently blurt it out loud enough for the first three rows of players to hear. But all who heard him would take it in stride – that was simply “DEE”! Dee was not one to simply forego expressing his opinions.

Only when his car was under water, did he miss a bingo session or when in later years when the doctors simply wouldn’t release him – and he made that known to them. Bingo was, perhaps, the best of times he enjoyed after his wife passed. He must have been a great dancer in his ‘hay-day’ and at formal affairs he was a ‘snappy’ dresser. I bet he wore spats in his earlier days – and always suspenders. Never was he, without his suspenders. His many stories of the bar he owned down in the 9th Ward in New Orleans always kept his audiences captivated. His unique mannerisms, so 9th Ward, always kept listeners on the edge of their seats. You never knew if the ending of any particular story would be a funny one, a serious one, or a tragic one. Dee never let someone else do a tasking he could do. And try as we may to keep him off ladders or from painting doors in the new Post – well, our efforts were a waste of time. As bingo cashier, even into his 90’s, he went to the bank every bingo day to pick up the bingo money and following bingo take it home for deposit the next day. Finally, had to refuse to let him take the money home at night for deposit the next day. He thought that unnecessary and foolish of us. But, we prevailed on this one. Only one of a very few battles we ever won over him. He has been missed over these past months and, now, he leaves a big hole. Elden “Dee” Thomas is preceded in death by his loving wife, Frances Buccola; parents, Mae Favalora Thomas and Joseph Louis Thomas; and brother, Joseph Louis Thomas Jr. Visitation and Funeral Service will be held at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home, 110 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis, MS 39520, Friday, October 14, 2022: Visitation 10:30am–11:30am; Funeral Service 11:30am. Graveside Service and Burial will take place at the Biloxi National Cemetery Friday, October 14, 2022 at 1:30pm. Edmond Fahey Funeral Home is honored to serve the family and friends of Elden “Dee” Thomas. View and Sign online tribute at www.bslef.com.

Mystery and Mess

By REV. C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN

C. GERALD RICHARDSON, D. MIN.

Eugene Peterson, a well-known, and widely read, writer and spiritual leader, has been quoted as saying the following: “The church is composed of equal parts mystery and mess.” That sounds about right. There is clearly mystery connected to the life of the church. It is an organization which finds its essence in the attempt to articulate, and make sense of, the profound imponderables of living a faith-based life. Simply discovering what a life of faith includes is a challenge. How does one live such a life? Is it possible to know for sure if the goal is being accomplished, or even approached? How do we discern the many nuances inherent in faithful living? Add to that the many voices which loudly proclaim certainty regarding these matters and the mystery can become overwhelming.

The very idea of a powerful and all-knowing deity which directs the world from a heavenly position can be a daunting one to many people.

The church exists amid all of this. It embraces the mystery in a variety of ways, some of which are helpful, and some can be distracting or even harmful. This is where the mess emerges. Disagreements are abundant in the life of the church. They may be structural. How will we be organized? Who is in charge? How do we resolve issues around buildings, budgets, and program priorities? And many more. Conflicts may be doctrinal. What exactly do we believe? Who gets to decide? How do we understand the nature and will of God? Of course, one of the biggest controversies is around the nature of the Bible. What is it? How should it be read? Is it a rule book, meditation tool, a guide for life, or something else? Sometimes these issues are due to strong personalities who wish to be in control. There are many moments when the church can look messy. It is often just that.

The amazing truth in all of this is that it works so often and so well. It is not always neat. It is surely not perfect (in fact, it is far from it). “Messy” can certainly be an apt description of the church much of the time. However, it has, and continues to, offer much good to the world. Hungry mouths are fed. Children are clothed, housed, and given care. Lives are transformed. Students are educated.

Many of our great universities, hospitals, and charitable institutions have their origins in the church. Yes, it is mystery, and yes, it is messy. There will never be a time when controversy does not go hand in hand with the church. Some think of it as superstition, others consider it a relic of a by-gone era. Some place their focus on its faults.

The church is complicated, sometimes confusing, and often challenging. It is also a gift to our world. We can challenge it, argue with it, doubt its assumptions, plumb the depths of its claims, all of which are appropriate. We can also give thanks for it, and hopefully, support it. It is a blessing to our lives.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS
Kiln Utility and Fire District of Hancock County ("District"). Mississippi will receive bids for:

CONSTRUCTION OF A POLE BARN

at the Office of the District located at the 16154 Fire Station Road, Kiln, Mississippi, during normal office hours at any time prior to the designated bid date, but not later than 2:00 PM on October 17, 2022, 2:00 p.m. at which time the bids will be opened and read aloud.
Bids are invited for the construction of a 40' by 50' pole barn. The work includes the clearing and filling of the land. The location of the work is to the east of the existing Kiln Utility Office, which is located at 16154 Fire Department Road, Kiln, Mississippi 39556. Minimum construction requirements are on file at the Office of the District located at 16154 Fire Department Road, Kiln, Mississippi 39556.
For bids exceeding $50,000, Bidder must indicate a Certificate of Responsibility Number on outside of sealed proposal as required by Mississippi Law. The District requires that bids be submitted by Contractors licensed in the State of Mississippi and must include proof of insurance for liability in the amount of $100,000.00 and workers' compensation acceptable to the District.
The District reserves the right to consider the following relevant factors in addition to the contract price in determining the lowest and best bid: bidder's skill and business judgment, its experience and its facilities for carrying out the contract, its previous conduct under other contracts and the quality of previous work, as well as its pecuniary ability, honesty, and integrity. The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informality in the bidding. The District also reserves the right to reject any mathematically and/or materially unbalanced bids.
Awarding public contracts to non-resident Bidders will be on the same basis as the non-resident bidder's state awards contracts to Mississippi Contractors bidding under similar circumstances. In order to ensure that Mississippi's so-called Golden Rule is followed, state law requires a nonresident bidder to attach to its bid a copy of its resident state's current laws pertaining to such state's treatment of non-resident contractors.
Bids may be held by the Kiln Utility and Fire District of Hancock County, for a period not to exceed ninety (90) days from the date of the opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of Bidders, prior to awarding of the Contract.

Meet Shore!

She sure is beautiful, and one of our dedicated volunteers describes this 2 year old Black-mouth Cur mix as being sweet, affectionate, and destined to be some lucky person's loyal companion. Shore is happiest in the company of people, although she is also great with other friendly dogs. She has a gentle, shy spirit about her, and could easily join a family with middle school age children seeking a confidant and best friend. Shore would be a wonderful cuddle buddy for adults and youngsters alike, as she is so friendly, and she thrives when given attention and love. She is most definitely a people oriented dog. She was even the featured pet on the WLOX Morning Show, and was quite charming and well behaved. This demure girl is even prettier in person, and she is so eager to please. Shore will be a devoted and loving furbaby to some lucky individual or family. She is such a sweetie! Please stop by during our visiting hours Mon, Wed-Fri, 10am-3:30pm and Tues 1pm-3:30pm to meet this lovely girl. You may also call our front desk at 228-466-4516 or 985-285-2244 to schedule an appointment. Please bring your dog(s) and children along to ensure compatibility.

house in Bay St. Louis.

"This is a wonderful event," Father Paddy Mockler — pastor for Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church -- said Wednesday at the Blessing site. "I missed the first (Blessing), but I've been here for all the rest."

Mockler blessed classic cars and their owners as they drove through the site.

The third annual Mopar

Day in Da Bay on Thursday also set new records.

"It was a wonderful day," event organizer Lonnie Falgout said. "It was quite amazing. It was beyond all my expectations. I think cars lining up on Blaize and Bookter at 6:30 in the morning tells the tale. ... The official number was 433 Mopars scattered around the Depot District."

Mopar is the parts, service and customer care division of American automobile manufacturer Chrysler. The company first used the term in the 1920s, but muscle car enthusiasts use it to "brand" the company's Dodge and Plymouth vehicles from the late 1960s and early 1970s, such as the Dodge Charger and Challenger, and the Plymouth Barracuda and Roadrunner.

The event is hosted each year by Mopars on the Coast and the Big Easy Mopar Association.

Falgout said the club was immensely pleased with the turn-out on Thursday, and has committed to keep bring the celebration to Bay St. Louis through at least 2026.

"They served 600 plates of jambalaya and pastalaya and they actually still had people in line when we ran out," he said. "It was a long-awaited revitalization of the Depot District. The merchants said it was overwhelming, unbelievable, and very profitable."

The Old Town Bay St. Louis area overflowed with classic cars and spectators on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with vehicles representing every era of the automotive industry. The Cruisers enjoyed live music all three days, with Vince Vance and the Valiants taking the main stage on Saturday.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Mike Favre gave a huge shout-out on social media to the members of the Misfits Street Krewzers classic car club, who volunteer every year to help organize the event and keep the traffic flowing smoothly through the city during the entire event.

Fall into fun at first annual Coleman Fall Fest

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Cruisin' the Coast is over, but there's plenty more festive fun on tap in Hancock County the rest of the month, with the first annual Coleman Avenue

Fall Fest in Waveland this weekend, the third annual Boo in the Bay the next, and the annual Witches Walk and The Arts' "A Night on the Beach" on the last Saturday of the month.

The Coleman Avenue Fall Fest is scheduled for 10 a.m.-5 p.m. this Saturday, Oct. 15, with live music, arts & crafts vendors and food.

"We want to highlight Coleman Avenue and also provide an event that is very family friendly," event organizer Kristen Tusa said. "From Studio Waveland all the way up to the Town Green, the street will be closed. We will have arts & crafts vendors and eight or nine food vendors. We are going to have an ax throwing booth, bounce houses, petting zoo and pony rides. Families can by a $5 wrist band for access to all those things.

"We'll also have music at the town green and on the front porch of Studio Waveland."

Tusa said the Fall Fest "is really a collaboration between Myrna Green and the Hancock County Tourism Bureau and the city of Waveland. This is the inaugural year. My goal is for this to continue to grow with each year. I tried to set up the different areas on Coleman Avenue — at the Town Green, outside the Ground Zero Museum, at the studio, because we want to highlight what's on the avenue for people who haven't visited those places yet."

Holy Trinity honors grandparents

SEA COAST ECHO

Holy Trinity Catholic School of Bay St. Louis has spent the month of September honoring and growing relationships with their grandparents. They kicked off the year with a donations drive for Dunbar Village Retirement Home, which encouraged students to bring in requested items or money. Following their Retirement Home drive, the school hosted Grandparents' Night on September 13, 2022 for over 375 Holy Trinity students and family members.

Holy Trinity administration and students, along with Our Lady Academy administration and students that helped organize the donations, delivered the Dunbar Village Donations on September 20, 2022. They spent time with the residents listening to their stories and soaking up their wisdom.

Grandparents' Night, hosted to celebrate the rich love and irreplaceable support grandparents bring to students' lives, offered dinner to attendees and held a bake sale to raise money for special events throughout the year. While attending the event, families visited the Book Fair and stopped by the classrooms to see how hard their grandchildren have been working. Students also took time throughout the month of September to make gifts to present to their grandparents to show their love and appreciation.

Holy Trinity fifth grader, Sarah Mayer, says this of her experience serving her grandparents for the month of September, "My great grandmother and grandpa are both at Dunbar Village, so it made me feel really happy that we did the donation drive. I know it helps them to get better to know that people care about them. And it made me happy that there are more people out there like me who have grandparents there that are worried about them."

Flag Retirement Program

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home works with local residents and the veterans services organizations to properly retire any U.S. flag that has reached the end of its service. Our program is designed to honor our national heroes, our military veterans, and to give dignity to our American Flag when it is no longer worthy of display. We strive to see that each veteran being cremated has a flag. There is no charge for this service to our veterans.

According to the United States code, Title 4, Chapter 1, Subsection 8: "The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning."

If you would like to honor a deceased veteran by donating an aged or worn flag to be properly disposed of, you may do so by delivering the flags to our funeral home located on the corner of Necaise Avenue and Main Street.

"We pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

My vision and reliance on proven organizational leadership with influential consensus-building talents is essential to Waveland’s continued progress.

An Alderman’s vision and influence in diplomatic consensus-building is essential to the City’s success in achieving its goals. The Alderman’s influence with external resources Board of Supervisors, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission (HCPHC), FEMA, private enterprise, etc.) is just as important as the electorate, internal city officials, other Aldermen and the Mayor.

Many people question why I repeatedly mention my proven leadership with the HCPHC. During my tenure on the Commission, we have been able to create an annual scholarship fund so that any high school graduate in Hancock County may attend PRCC tuition free. The HCPHC is an incredibly valuable resources that is not fully utilized by Waveland. As your Ward 1 Alderman, I will make sure the HCPHC proves to be a beneficial resource to us.

Waveland’s Ward 1 Alderman run-off is between a popular disruptor-activist Rhonda Aime-Gamble and the proven results-oriented organization of myself, Bob Martin. Mrs. Gamble is good at drumming up community energy, but it is a populist movement, that I contend she has not demonstrated any indication that she has a full grasp on the complexities of the issues nor has she offered any solutions.

• City Charter

It is not my intent to disparage Mrs. Gamble’s accomplishments; however, she claims one of her primary accomplishments is her unsanctioned independent clerical assembly and indexing of the City’s Charter documents. She claims to be doing the same thing to the City Ordinances.

ANALYSIS—Although this may seem like honorable work, notwithstanding Waveland’s need for better record-keeping, getting into the middle of clerical activities like this is NOT an Alderman’s job. One might ask does she understand the difference between leadership and organizational function? This is also an example of how echoing a common constituency pet-peeve in the electorate feeds contagious populism. The reason her work was NOT adopted by the city is because all city Charter work must be performed by the city and approved by the Governor and Attorney General. Does rewarding a community activist with an Alderman’s leadership role make sense?

• City Problems

Mrs. Gamble echoes the electorate’s problems with the city on her website, “With nearly a decade of government experience, I know what it takes to find solutions and how to navigate the complicated governmental agencies to get things done,” and “I know what the problems are and can hit the ground running on day one.”

ANALYSIS—This is political rhetoric. She offers no solutions to problems every candidate acknowledged in their platforms. The rest of her platform is classic demagoguery, she makes statements that resonated within the community, but offers no solutions. This is the basis for her entire platform. Her accomplishments and qualifications are weak. Her Associates Degree alone does not qualify her for Alderman and her occupation as the Justice Court Clerk and Paralegal were not leadership roles. The Ward 1 Alderman race should not be a popularity contest. But that is where it is leaning.

• Economic Development

Mrs. Gamble says, “It is far past time to kick Waveland’s economic development into high gear. We can accomplish this by expanding and improving community amenities through cooperation and partnership, fueling infrastructure, education, business, and the non-profit sector.”

ANALYSIS-How? Again, she states the obvious, but does not explain how her skills as a community activist can get it done. I point back to the HCPHC Business Development group which is designed as Hancock County’s official Business Development Unit for the entire county. As your Ward 1 Alderman, I will make sure this proves to be a beneficial resource to Waveland.

• Blighted Properties

Mrs. Gamble says, “Blighted properties throughout the city are an increasing issue, It is imperative that we take whatever actions are necessary.”

ANALYSIS—What actions? She states the obvious again but does not explain how her skills as a community activist can get it done. The truth is, Waveland has not kept the citizenry updated on progress with the fight against community blight. I think it is important that our citizenry understand nearly all blight involves private property. We must respect private property rights and work within our regulatory powers. Mrs. Gamble mentioned publicly that the apartments at Waveland Avenue at US-90 were an eye sore that needs to be handled. I am not defending the status quo, but we must first understand the city does not have the “power of the crown;” therefore, it must abide with private property rights. This is a process, and that process is already underway. This property recently changed hands and the city did perform inspections, prepared complaints, and demanded conformity. In a nutshell, it comes down to code enforcement. We must improve our code and enforcement, which falls under the Mayor’s responsibility. While overhauling codes and enforcement I plan on asking that sign enforcement regulations become a part of this reassessment. We will have a new Mayor January 2023; I will work with the Mayor to assess and improve our codes and enforcement.

I agree with the communities’ sentiments and believe our entire community will be better served by me because I bring a thorough understanding of the issues. Furthermore, unlike my opponent, I do not have a contemptuous passion against our city government, rather I am offering real solutions. With a career in leadership, I have proven track-record. I possess superior business management and consensus-building leadership skills. My supporters are drawn to my pragmatic no non-sense approach to management. It is one thing to be a community activist, but it is quite another to manage with level-headed diplomacy and a comprehensive understanding of all issues facing our Ward and city-at-large.

The foundation also thanked Falgout — a former Bay St. Louis city councilman — for his “personal creation and involvement in many sports programs, tournaments, concerts, festivals, civic ventures like the two Dixie Girls World Series, Babe Ruth Regionals, Alice Moseley Festivals, McDonald & MLK Park, the Vietnam Wall That Heals exhibit, Mississippi Heroes Festival, Mopar Day in Da Bay annual celebration, Michael Boutte/Cayce Seal Foundation, Waveland’s Summer Bash and his favorite annual Jourdan River community Fireworks Display on the 4th of July, etc.”

“We are honored and extremely proud of all his ‘never-say-no’ contributions to the community, while always leading this museum for the past 17 years,” according to the release. “Ms. Alice is smiling down as her dream of a free educational museum has been fulfilled. Thanks, Lonnie J. Falgout. The rest is history!”

The museum foundation hosted a retirement party for Falgout on Friday at the Bay St. Louis Depot grounds, with a host of current and former local public officials attending to wish Falgout well.

Mike Krawcheck, Alice Moseley’s nephew, lauded Falgout for his commitment not only to the museum, but also the community at large.

Even though Falgout has retired, Krawcheck said, “we know he will answer the call when he is needed.”

The museum foundation board is expected to name Falgout as its permanent “Executive Director Emeritus” at its annual meeting later this month. Falgout will also

“We threw some ideas around, and one of the ideas was having an ‘Eddie Favre Day.’”

Falgout said members of the Bay St. Louis City Council prepared a special proclamation for the day, which was expected to be approved at last night’s council meeting.

There will be a ceremony on Friday, Oct. 14, beginning at 3:30 p.m. at the corner of Main Street and Beach Boulevard, in front of the Hancock Bank building.

“We thought, what better place,” Falgout said. “After Katrina, a few of us were standing downtown and there was no more Beach Boulevard.

The only thing still standing was Hancock Bank, and that’s the day he vowed he would do everything he could to rebuild his town. That’s also the day he swore he’d wear shorts the rest of his life if it meant rebuilding the city.”

During the ceremony, the sidewalk star — paid for by donations through the Alice Moseley Foundation — will be unveiled and dedicated in Favre’s honor.

After the ceremony, attendees will be invited across the street to Dan B. Murphy’s Restaurant to visit with Favre and wish him well.

“It’s going to be a chance for everybody to wish him a long life and say thanks for the memories,” Falgout said, “thanks for rebuilding the city.”

ests," and "be used for business, tourist information & promotions, BSL branded gifts & souvenir purchases," as well as "display selected local artistic works for sale and promotion with semi-annual contests and events."

However, the council entered into a contract with the Hancock Chamber in April to lease the top floor of the building for $750 per month. The contract is for the top floor of the building, but under the agreement, the Chamber "will operate the first floor of Old City Hall" as a business center.

Hancock Chamber Executive Director Tish Williams said last month that the goal is to operate the first floor of the building as a "business incubator," basically a program designed to help entrepreneurs or start-up businesses get established and grow before moving on to their own locations.

However, council members had signaled to the Chamber their intent to potentially lease the first floor of the building to another paying client.

At last week's meeting, Chamber President Regan Kane gave the council a detailed PowerPoint presentation of the Chamber's plans for the building "at not cost to this city."

"The Chamber to date has spent $10,000 in order to execute these plans," Kane said.

In addition, Kane said, as part of the lease agreement, the Chamber had updated the city's website and provided about $15,000 worth of service on that endeavor, including engaging the services of professional photographer Ken Murphy.

Kane said the Chamber's initial plans to open a business center were delayed because, unbeknownst to them at the time of the lease, the building's air conditioning and fire suppression system were not in working order.

"Nobody had been (a tenant) in there for a couple of years," Mayor Mike Favre said. "so nobody realized that it wasn't working."

The Chamber also secured $25,000 in grant funding to furnish the business center, Kane said, even though it wasn't required to in the lease.

Despite the Chamber's significant investment, Kane said, "For the past two meetings, the council has discussed leasing out the first floor. This discussion gives the Chamber no confidence" that the lease will be honored.

Kane said the business center would be important to "encourage innovation by young people, women and minorities ... and help put under-served people back to work."

Overall, he said, the Chamber's plan would take about eight months to complete.

"While development is under way, the space can be used for meetings and events," Kane said.

Once it is complete, he said, "the city and county would have a state-of-the art training and business center. The Chamber is asking for the city's assurance that you will honor the agreement."

The council then assured Kane it would honor the lease.

"The presentation was beautifully done," Ward 4 Councilman Kyle Lewis said. "Thank you for the timeline and the business plan — this is really what I was looking for. Knowing what that business plan is, to me, that helps."

In other action last week, the council tabled discussion on Favre's recommendation to approve a professional services agreement between the city and Butler Snow Attorneys, which employs city attorney Heather Ladner Smith.

The agreement would establish a monthly retainer of $11,000 for a set scope of work; anything outside that scope would be billed at $225 per hour.

According to Butler Snow's letter to the city, "The rates are competitive with other cities on the Mississippi Gulf Coast."

Butler Snow provided a legal fee comparison that shows the city of D'Iberville pays its attorney a $225,000 annual retainer; Moss Pint and Pascagoula each pay $125,000 annually; Hancock County pays an estimated $257,000; Diamondhead, $110,000; Waveland, $38,000; Pass Christian, $72,000; and Ocean Springs, $144,000.

"We feel like its very comparable to the rest of the Coast and (Smith has) done a good job for us," Favre said. "She's done very well keeping us out of trouble — she's very focused on keeping the city out of litigation."

Favre said the retainer would be covered under the budget.

"There's not been an increase in attorney's fees in seven years," he said.

"I was expecting some type of increase," Councilman-at-Large Gary Knoblock said, but this is a 50 percent increase."

"We do want to give a raise, but is there another number in between?" Council President Jeff Reed asked.

Lewis said the request should have come up when the council was putting together its FY 2023 budget.

"We an anticipate that this is going to affect the budget," he said.

"We do have to acknowledge that Mrs. Smith has been a tremendous part of ... keeping us out of any lawsuits," Ward 2 Councilman Gene Hoffman said, but "As the mayor said, (the fee) should have been stepped up over time."

"I just really appreciate (Mrs. Smith) and I think she deserves a raise, but I'd like to see another number," Reed said.

Reed refused to put the matter to the vote, but instead tabled discussion until the council's Oct. 18 meeting.

Rocks take down Trojans 30-6

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The Saint Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws hit the road north to open Division 8-3A play against the West Marion Trojans. The Rocks (4-3, 1-0) took down the Trojans 30-6 behind a strong defensive performance.

The Trojans opened the game on offense but were quickly forced to punt.

The Rocks took on the Trojan 28 yard line but were unable to do anything. SSC missed a 47-yard field goal wide left leaving the score unchanged.

West Marion mounted an eight-play drive that resulted in a fumble recovered by Heith Shinn with a little less than four minutes remaining in the first quarter at the Trojan 36 yard line.

It took SSC one play to find the endzone as Chandler Chapman broke free on a 36-yard scoring run with 3:41 left in the first quarter.

Evan Noel's PAT made the score 7-0.

The Rock defense went back to work highlighted by Bruno Dall's sack for a loss of 15 yards. The Trojans were forced into a three-and-out situation.

SSC took over at the West Marion 45 yard line. The offense limped into position for a 27-yard field goal attempt that was blocked. West Marion took over on their own seven yard line.

Three plays into their drive, the Trojans fumbled again and the loose ball was recovered by Shinn at the nine yard line.

Again, one play defined the Rocks' drive as Hudson Osborne connected with Ethan Galloway on a 9-yard scoring aerial with 10:07 left in the first half. Noel's PAT made the score 14-0.

The two teams traded possessions the remainder of the half.

Noel successfully kicked a 32-yard field goal with 4:48 left in the third quarter to make the score 17-0.

The Trojans answered with a 14-play drive that brought the ball down to the Rock five yard line only to see the Rock defense hold firm and force a turnover on downs.

Chapman drove the Rocks away from the endzone before a holding penalty brought SSC back to their 16-yard line.

Osborne then found a wide open Jackson Dicerbo who cruised 84 yards to the endzone with 8:28 left in the game. Noel's PAT hit the upright leaving the score 23-0.

On the second play from scrimmage on the ensuing possession, Brady Logan intercepted a Trojan pass and returned it 25 yards for a touchdown with 7:54 left in the game. Noel's PAT made the score 30-0.

The Trojans scored on a two-yard run with 1:35 left to play to make the score 30-6. The two-point conversion failed.

SSC head coach Nate Encrapera commented, "Our defensive staff did a tremendous job getting our players prepared for tonight. In some instances, we let our emotions get the best of us and we must be more disciplined than that. Now, we have to turn our attention a much improved Seminary squad. We have to be ready to play despite all the distractions."

The Rocks were led by Chapman who carried the ball 19 times for 130 yards and a touchdown. Osborne threw for 168 yards and two touchdowns. On defense, the opportunistic Rocks were led by Spencer Cornell with 15 stops including a sack and Hacob Bradford with 13 stops including two hurries. Dall added nine stops with a sack.

This week the Rocks will host Seminary for Homecoming. The Rocks have a 1-0 lead in the series with a victory last year. SSC will crown their Homecoming queen at halftime. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Hawks fall to Admirals 41-6

BY DWAYNE BREMER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The Gulfport Admirals on Thursday defeated the Hancock 41-6 to improve their record to 6-1 on the season.

The Hawks fell to 4-3. Gulfport dominated the scoreboard and time of possession in the first half to jump out to a 21-0 lead.

The Admirals' first possession spanned 16 plays; however, they were unable to score thanks to a blocked field goal by Hancock's Xavier Ganier.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Admirals ambushed the Hawks with three consecutive touchdowns.

Emanuel Bentley started things off with a one-yard touchdown run at the 11:20 mark of the second quarter.

Gavin Brown later scored on a three-yard run.

Just before halftime, Quarterback Marcus Palazzo hit Prince Cottingham on a seven-yard pass to extend the lead to 21-0.

The Hawks, however, had time for a few more plays and they made it count for their only score of the game.

Destin Coleman took a pitch, then tossed the ball deep for Todd De-deaux, who motored 68 yards for a touchdown.

The point-after failed and the Hawks trailed 21-6 at the half.

The Hawks got good field position to start the second half thanks to a nice kickoff return by Coleman, but they turned the ball over on down at midfield.

Four plays later, Bentley rumbled 41 yards for another Gulfport touchdown.

After an interception, Gulfport marched 62 yards in seven plays for another score. Brown scored his second touchdown of the evening with a 10-yard run.

The Admirals added another score in the fourth when Palazzo connected with Nicholas Williams from 13 yards out.

The Hawks were unable to score again and the final score was 41-6.

The Hawks (4-3) travel to D'Iberville on Friday.
